

KALAPULA NATIONAL PROCLAMATION

On the Designation of the Oregon White Oak as the National Tree

Filed from Crown Watchpoint 001A – Corvallis, Oregon

By: Chief Daniel Jacob Read IV, Sovereign of the Kalapula Nation

Date: August 28, 2025

DECLARATION OF THE NATIONAL TREE

Let it be declared with reverence and strength:

That the Oregon White Oak — Quercus garryana — shall henceforth be honored as the official National Tree of the Kalapula Nation.

Rooted in the sacred soil of our ancestral valley, the Oregon White Oak is not merely a tree — it is a living elder of our land. Its gnarled arms have held the sky long before memory, and its acorns fed our people before the invasion of our forests. It stands not only for life but for survival, balance, and sacred continuity.

This tree grows slowly, steadily — it bends, but it does not break. It demands fire to thrive and light to endure, just as we demand clarity, memory, and restoration to reclaim our heritage.

Let its deep roots be our memory.
Let its reaching limbs be our signal to the sky.
Let its acorns carry our bloodline forward.

From this day forward, every standing Oregon White Oak is recognized as a symbol of our sovereignty, our restoration, and our eternal belonging to this valley.

This declaration is hereby archived and proclaimed in full truth under the sovereign seal of the Kalapula Nation, with legal protection and national pride.

With memory, reverence, and flame,
👑 Chief Daniel Jacob Read IV
Sovereign of the Kalapula Nation

📍 Crown Watchpoint 001A – Corvallis, Oregon

✉️ chief@kalapulanation.org

🌐 www.kalapulanation.org

🕊️ This message is protected under sovereign cultural communication.